Biography

Emma Tregellas
Cyber Associate

Current Responsibilities

Emma Tregellas is a Cyber Associate based in Marsh's New York City office. In her current role, she acts as a placement specialist in the U.S. Cyber Practice. She mainly works within the U.S. corporate cyber team, which uses a single-service broker model to provide both advisory and transactional services for clients with revenues under $1 billion. As the intermediary between the insurance carriers and Marsh's clients, Emma strives to bring her clients the most competitive pricing from financially strong insurers. Throughout her time at Marsh, Emma has leveraged her communication skills, attention to detail, and personable and goal oriented demeanor in order to protect her clients from potential cyber and technology risks. Emma also serves as the Cyber Industry Specialist for the Education Sector. In this role, she identifies prospects and examines the cyber market conditions within the education industry in order to expand Marsh's cyber capabilities, identify trends, and determine key insurance coverage characteristics.

Experience

Emma graduated from Duke University in May of 2021 where she created her own major that analyzed the intersection between media, technology, and marketing. In August 2021, she launched her career in Marsh's cyber practice.

Education
- BA in Visual Media and the Markets, Duke University

Affiliations
- Licensed Broker in the State of New York